

KEYNOTE

Meta-skills.

Skills allow us to execute. Meta-skills like empathy, resilience, creativity, and self-awareness allow us to evolve.

As organizations and industries face increasingly rapid change and disruption, in which job descriptions are fluid and agility is essential, meta-skills are fast becoming the currency of talent.

Packed with ideas on both how to foster the development of meta-skills for yourself, and how to build meta-skilled teams and organizations, this keynote lays out a framework for future-proofing yourself and your company in a fast-changing world.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Dane Jensen is the CEO of Third Factor and an expert on strategy, leadership, and resilience under pressure.

Dane oversees Third Factor's delivery of leadership development programs to leading firms across North America. He teaches in the Full-Time and Executive MBAs at the Smith School of Business at Queen's University and is Affiliate Faculty with UNC Executive Development at the Kenan-Flagler Business School in Chapel Hill. In addition to his corporate work, Dane works extensively with athletes, coaches, leaders and Boards across Canada's Olympic and Paralympic sport system to enhance National competitiveness.

Dane's first book, The Power of Pressure, will be published by Harper Collins in 2021.

“Dane understands high performance and he understands leadership. He has worked with the leadership team at Right to Play for the past five years - and I can say there is no better personal change management program out there than what he delivers.”

– Johann Koss, Founder, Right To Play, 4x Olympic Gold Medalist

As exponential technologies, changing social norms and other mega-trends rapidly reshape the global landscape, building the capacity to adapt and evolve has never been more vital. But simply telling people to “be more agile” isn't particularly helpful.

Through 60-90 minutes packed with humour and insight, Dane will illustrate how the capacity to evolve can be broken down into an ability to first see clearly, then to move quickly, and finally to stay the course – and will outline practical skills and strategies for individuals to cultivate their own ability to adapt, and to coach others to become more agile as well.

SEE CLEARLY

MOVE QUICKLY

STAY THE COURSE

PARTICIPANTS HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO LEARN:

- How to build up their own capacity to evolve, and create cultures that support others in becoming more agile and adaptable
- The different roles that skills and meta-skills play in fostering agility
- How six core meta-skills in three areas combine to foster personal evolution: empathy, self-awareness, flexibility, creativity, learning capacity and resilience
